The Lure of Carmel That Brings and Holds Its People

Gradually Carmel is filling up August, they come to find the with the summer people who make coolness of sea breezes and—yes the village their homes for weeks —fogs! or months during the season. Many are regular in their exodus to Carmel. Year after year they slip into town at about the same time, quietly install themselves in cottages long contracted for and promptly become a part of the summer activities. They have learned the ropes, and know how to occupy themselves to the best advantage for pleasure and health. They are almost Carmelites.

But a larger number are the initiates. This is their first summer in Carmel, and they have ideas, based upon hearing and reading of this unique village, of

Low-Cut Beach Suits May Show Charms as Censorship Banned

And how far should feminine charms be exposed on the Carmel beach this summer?

Well—er—none of the village's city council's officials, including the mayor and members of the police department will express a definite stand in judging milady's bathing attire.

Each year as bathing costumes become more and more abbreviated, members of the city council have scratched their heads, looked puzzled and have tabled any action in the matter. This season the council members are again expected to don colored glasses and skip over any attempt to pass legislation on the bounds of decency.

"As far as I am concerned I'm willing to place the responsibility on the shoulders of those who use the beach," Mayor John Catlin explained his stand. "We have seldom had any complaint on the use of low-cut bathing suits and I don't see any reason for taking legislative action."

Herbert Heron, poetic member of the council says that he for one, wouldn't take away the privileges from bathing damsels.

"As long as the bathers bask in the sun on the beach, I don't care what they wear," Heron points out. "I am, however, against allowing men and women to walk through the downtown district in their bathing suits. It just isn't artistic!"

And councilman John B. Jordan believes that no city official should interfere with feminine wear.

"After all," Jordan declares, "a husband can't control his own wife's styles. The council, I believe, would be taking advantage of their position in ruling upon the bathing attire of women residents."

So matters stand. Unless complaints arise, a coat of tan may yet suffice.

New Highway's Scenic Beauty May Be Guarded Under Zoning

A tentative zoning ordinance, two provisions of which will aid toward safe-guarding the famous scenic beauty of the Carmel-San Simeon highway as far south as Rat Creek is now being drawn up and may be presented to the board of supervisors for adoption sometime in August.

The proposed zoning plan was considered at a public hearing by the Monterey county planning commission at Pfeiffer's Big Sur resort, with many of the property owners of that section in attendance.

One of the most important provisions of the tentative plan prohibits the construction of commercial establishments unless they are set back 150 feet from the highway. Also the ordinance will not allow the erection of any billboard which is over 12 feet square.

Another regulation under the zoning plan would provide that all buildings within 150 feet of the road, and all commercial structures back of that distance but within sight of the road, will be subject to the architectural control of the ordinance.

Carmel residents who are interested in keeping the new highway free from commercialized areas are this week busily studying the recommendations of the commission and will probably make an appearance at the next public hearing.

While the tentative plan as it stands now has met with local approval there are several provisions in the proposed ordinance which have been characterized as a possible threat to the scenic beauty of the highway.

This provision allows that when it is desired by the owner, one commercial district will be "zoned on each one of the existing property ownerships, provided that such uses (service stations, stores, restaurants and similar business) shall be set back 150 feet from the highway."

PIRATES of PENZANCE at FOREST THEATER, JULY 1, 2, 3

Drawer 1600,
Carmel, Calif.

Many Carmel residents who are studying the plan feel that this provision will result in a long stretch of commercial zones the full length of the highway between here and the San Luis Obispo county line.

The tentative ordinance will shortly be drawn up and together with maps and figures will be made available so that anyone can have the opportunity of studying it. It will not be until sometime August before any definite action is taken.

At Saturday's meeting of the commission some 50 persons attended, many of them property owners on the stretch to be zoned. The majority of the land holders were in favor of the zoning plan and there was virtually no opposition to the present provisions.

CARMEL FIRE OFFICERS TAKE SPECIAL LESSONS

Officers of the fire department here, and those of Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel Highlands, and Salinas, are receiving a teacher's training course under direction of L. W. Baker, representing the California Bureau of Industrial Education and the State Fire Marshal's office. The course is designed to cover all the many problems encountered by officers of the fire service. If the need develops, special courses covering in detail certain technical problems will be given later.

SCHULTE TO HEAD GROUP FOR FEDERAL FUND DRIVE

Ben Schulte, Carmel valley rancher, this week heads a group of 25 prominent Monterey county farmers, who have organized themselves into an association to seek federal financial assistance.

The farmers will attempt to take advantage of President Roosevelt's program for relief of agriculture on a basis of community co-operation. Between one and two million dollars will be released in this part of the state for farm loan purposes, it is said.

Mr. Harold Gates was seen in town for a few days this week. Mr. Gates is living in San Francisco now where his mother has been for the last six months or more.

The monthly meeting of the Carmel Missionary Society will be held at the Carmel Community Church, June 28, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Willis G. White will be the principal speaker, speaking on "China." The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cowles have returned from a week's trip to Los Angeles. In August Mr. and Mrs. Cowles will leave for Ather- where they have leased a home for an indefinite period.

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

Last Friday the Ford Motor Company completed 30 years of automobile making.

It is also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit—which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during the last 30 years.

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent restrictions.

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share—everyone must get it for himself—and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive—their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will appear.

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

Three Plays in Rehearsal For Forest Theatre Summer Season

With three elaborate productions scheduled to be staged during the month of July, Carmel's famous Forest theatre was this week preparing for one of its most ambitious seasons in years. Audiences which will include as usual, old timer's and visitors, will find variety and dramatic artistry in the type of plays selected for production. Fine casts have also been assembled for each of the three plays.

The Forest Theatre season opens on Saturday night, July 1st with the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Pirates of Penzance." Performances will also be given on Sunday and Monday night. Arthur Gunderson and Victor Kearney are directing this well known musical piece that will include a large chorus. Few show houses in the world have the acoustic possibilities of the Forest Theatre. "Anyone who has heard a concert or witnessed a musical production at the Forest Theatre knows how ideal it is for the type of an operetta such as the "Pirates of Penzance."

Following the Gilbert and Sullivan production, "The Ivory Door" by A. A. Milne will be presented on July 14 and 15. This is a delightful comedy that will have a wide appeal in Carmel. Dorothy Folger is directing the show.

This year's Forest Theatre season will be brought to a climax with the presentation of "The Merchant of Venice" on the last week-end of July. Shakespeare has always proved a drawing card in Carmel and has invariably attracted large audiences at the Forest Theatre.

"The Merchant of Venice" has never before been produced in Carmel and is being looked forward to as the logical vehicle to bring the summer theatre festival to a close. Herbert Heron is directing the production.

Talks on police work and problems of identification took up most of the discussion. As a climax to the meeting, members of the chorus of the Forest Theater production, "Pirates of Penzance," entertained the visitors.

Mrs. Howard Leslie left Tuesday of this week for a two weeks' vacation at Sequoia National Park where she will join Mr. Leslie and son Edgar who have been vacationing there for the past week.

WOMAN SUES WHEN BENCH IN BIG SUR COLLAPSES

Because a picnic bench collapsed with her, bringing painful hip injuries, Mrs. Edith R. Clark, former county jail matron this week instituted suit in the superior court for $12,735 against Mr. and Mrs. John Pfeiffer, operators of the famous Pfeiffer's ranch resort in the Big Sur district.

Mrs. Clark asserts that the accident was due to carelessness and negligence in "maintaining" the picnic bench, which she says was frail and flimsy.

PEACE OFFICERS MEET HERE FOR DISCUSSION

Some fifty peace officers, prosecutors and police judges gathered Tuesday night at Pine Inn for the regular monthly meeting of the recently organized Central Coast counties peace officers' association.

The officials were welcomed to Carmel by Mayor John Catlin.

Artistic Triumph Scored By Kuster in "Sister Benvenuta"

By Herbert Corwin

In a play, the name of which would be enough to keep the average theatre-goer from standing in line at the box office, Edward G. Kuster, gave another one of his "experimental" productions last week-end to amply prove that dramatic artistry on the amateur stage is not a thing of the past.

"Sister Benvenuta" is not the type of a play that brings forth enthusiastic applause and feet stamping. Rather, it is one of those strange, delicate imaginative pieces that like caviar, should be served to the populace only on rare occasions.

The play seems to grow with you, long after the final curtain has come down. Frankly, we must confess that as we sat there the opening night, we felt disappointed. Yet as we now think further about it, the more we can appreciate its artistry and dramatic quality.

It was unfortunate that on the opening night, "Sister Benvenuta" should have been preceded by such a long musical program. The music was put in, not for atmosphere but to lengthen the show, the play being unusually short. It was a case of trying to give the audience their "money's worth" and like all such instances it detracted from the actual play.

Rosemary DeCamp as "Sister Benvenuta" gave an interpretation of the role that was a privilege to witness. She gave the part that delicate, polished touch that it needed. Kuster has always had the ability of selecting the right person for the right role.

Marie Rossi, Wendy Prince and Agente Johanssen in the supporting roles also gave the production the professional technique that was essential for its success. Albert Van Houtte as the Abbe, proved that he can repeat the fine acting he did in last year's productions.

Others in the cast whose parts were small, but nevertheless aided in the blending included Barbara Sutro, Edward Keefe, Earl Hichey, Robert A. Leitch, Katherine Wagner, Gwendolyn Stearns, Gabrielle Kuster, Alice Barnickol, Eugenia Barnickol, Jean Potter, Claire Keefe, Ruth Pinkham, Marion Pinkham, Edwina Pinkham, Betty Pinkham, Geraldine Thiemmes, Betty Wheeler, Joyce Whitcomb and Hallie Smith.

Divided as the opinion may be among those who witnessed "Sister Benvenuta" no one can doubt Kuster's tremendous interest in attempting to create an appreciation for dramatic art. He will dig into translations, select plays by totally unknown authors and search every possible field of literature in the hope of presenting new types of plays to his audiences.

Experimental plays like "Sister Benvenuta" are the type of productions that are run on a financial loss; yet they serve their purpose. Carmel should welcome back Edward Kuster—he was one of that group that years ago made the village famous as a theatrical center.

FIFTH ANNUAL PAGEANT OF SAN JUAN BAUTISTA

With selection of the cast of more than one hundred participants completed, rehearsals have started for the Pageant Play by Charles D. South which will be the feature of the fifth annual Pageant of San Juan Bautista to be held next Sunday, June 25th. Other features of the celebration, which marks the 138th birthday of the mission and town of San Juan are a historical parade, Spanish California barbecue and exhibition of horses and riding equipment.

Players in the leading roles singers, dancers and musicians, numbering more than 110 are rehearsing regularly under supervision of Director Edward Preston Murphy and Mrs. P. W. Breen of Hollister, musical director. Arrangements are being made to serve more than 3000 at the barbecue, according to John J. Baumgartner, Jr., general chairman.

PRIZES AWARDED WINNERS IN LITERARY CONTEST

Three annual Commonwealth Club medals for literary excellence have been presented to winning California authors at the monthly dinner meeting of the Commonwealth Club of California.

The gold medal for "the finest book by a California author published in 1932" was awarded to Sara Bard Field, for her book-length poem, "Barabbas." Silver medals identical in design were awarded to Gertrude Atherton for her autobiography "Adventures of a Novelist", and to Harold Lamb for his novel "Nur Mahal."

This is the second presentation of the medals offered by the Commonwealth Club each year to encourage the highest literary merit in books by California writers. Last year the gold medal was won by Dr. Herbert Eugene Bolton, author of "Outpost of Empire", and silver medals were awarded to Lincoln Steffens for the "Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens", and to William Gibbs McAdoo for "Crowded Years."

LOCAL ETCHERS EXHIBIT

In a collection of etching and woodblocks now showing at Gumps, in San Francisco, are pictures by Cornelius Botke, Armin Hansen, Ralph Chesse, Edward Taylor, Gene Kloss, Edward Borein, and other artists known on the Monterey peninsula. The exhibit is attracting much attention.

MOORE'S VALLEY RANCH ATTACHED BY CREDITORS

The 27,000 acre ranch in Carmel Valley owned by George Gordon Moore, former millionaire, was attached this week for $4,780 assertedly due to 21 employees working for him.

Attachment proceedings were instituted by Frank C. McDonald, state labor commissioner. In addition to the attachment, eleven criminal charges, alleging violation of the state pay check law were filed against Moore by the state labor commission.

The case is to be heard this week before Judge Ray Baugh in Monterey.

WELL KNOWN HIGHLANDS RESIDENT WEDS IN MIAMI

Theodore C. Achilles, well known Carmel Highlands resident, was this week spending his honeymoon in Havana, following his recent marriage to Miss Marian Field. The wedding was performed at Miami, Florida.

Achilles is the son of Mrs. Gertrude Achilles and is a member of the United States diplomatic service. He was divorced six months ago at Reno by Mrs. Louise Cleveland Achilles.

The Carmel friends of Matthew M. Murphy will be interested to know that Smithsonian Institution now has his entire collection of reproductions on cloth, of Navajo sand paintings. Mr. Murphy's daughter, Mrs. John Montague will talk on the Navajo Indians this afternoon at three o'clock in Tillie Polak's balcony room.

Abalone Leaguers Lose and Win With San Mateo Maulers

NEWS FLASH (before lunch) Abalone League picked team defeated by arch-enemy San Mateo Maulers by score of 10 to 4.

NEWS FLASH (after lunch)—San Mateo Maulers defeated by arch-enemy Abalone League by score of 8 to 5.

Playing their third game together this year, Carmel and San Mateo tangled at the Del Monte polo field Sunday morning and had to relate the local invincible Abalones were short-ended for the first time in memory of living man.

It may have been the rules. It may have been W. Josselyn being loaned to San Mateo to substitute for Dana Fuller, who was supposed to arrive by airplane and romp in left field. It may have been galloping age at Abalone heels. Anyhow, San Mateo under Captain Jimmie Davis got a decisive victory in a game of few hits and many close decisions.

Ah, yes, you Abalone fans, what about the afternoon game? Well, that was played under Abalone rules. All right and proper from Abalone standpoint, just as the morning agreement had been from the San Mateo outlook. And the score was 8 to 5 for the Leaguers with Captain Fred Godwin running the team from first base and long were the lamentations about the distance San Mateo had to pitch, as well as the quaint local custom of allowing the pitcher to balk. Northerners play straight baseball rules and very short pitching distance. Carmel plays under the special Abalone Sanction developed through these thirteen years of League life and acknowledged through America to be the One-And-Only.

Another game is being planned for Pastiempo production wherein a mixture of rules will be evolved. Doubtless there will be heavy mortality among umpires, but as Carmel has a faculty for having the only umpires in sight when games begin it is thought that everything will be in the spirit of good clean fun.

Former Carmelite Shoots Girl, Kills Self in Hollywood

Clifford Sherwood, 40, a writer, formerly of Carmel, was dead in Hollywood today from a self-inflicted bullet wound, after he assertedly shot and killed his sweetheart.

Sherwood, a wound in his head, was found unconscious in his automobile on the highway near Hollywood. Beside his body were newspapers telling of the murder of Gabrielle Andrieux, young French modiste.

According to police, the girl was bludgeoned with a bottle and then shot to death in her bungalow in the heart of Hollywood. Sherwood was accused by police as the slayer and the search instituted for him came to a climax with the finding of his body.

Taken to the hospital in Hollywood, physicians held out little hope for his recovery. He died several hours later. Sherwood is said to have lived in Carmel for some time.

car near his home. As it struck the ground, the gun went off, sending a bullet through the officer's right leg. He was taken to the Carmel hospital for treatment.

WE DELIVER

We Mark Ballot for Next Tuesday's State Election

As has been the Pine Cone's custom, we mark our ballot for the state election next Tuesday on each of the amendments and measures to be found on the ticket. This is done after careful reading of the arguments sent out by the friends and enemies of the propositions, and expresses our best judgment in each instance. As in the past, we may not always be right, may not always be with the majority of the electorate, but we are sincere.

The ten proposed amendments and measures will appear on the ballot in the following order:

1—Taxation. The Riley plan for changing the state system of tax raising.

Vote YES.

2—Twenty million dollar state unemployment relief bond issue.

Vote YES.

3—Ratifies legislative act regulating horse racing and legalizes pari-mutuel system of gambling on horse races.

er of troops two and three. Troop two meets on Tuesday, troop one on Wednesday, and on Friday the third troop.

The girls of this vicinity join in many activities. But of them all, we like hikes the best. Mrs. Daniels has been kind enough to offer her cabin in the Carmel Valley to the girl scouts. On Saturday, May 20th, the girls of troop one had a very enjoyable time there. They spent the day hiking and exploring. Many tests were passed by Katherine DeBols, such as fire building and first aid. The trip proved more than successful, except for a few minor accidents.

A number of girls are planning to go to Scout Camp this summer. The Wednesday and Friday troops will go to Sky Meadow at Big Basin. The camp will be open for six weeks during June and July. —Joyce Uzzell, 7th grade.

PEBBLE BEACH GIRL INJURED BY HORSE

Barbara Douglas, 23, Pebble Beach society girl was today recovering from serious injuries suffered earlier in the week when she was pushed by her horse as she led the animal down a steep bank.

Miss Douglas fell about ten feet and sustained a broken hip. She is the daughter of Mrs. Grace Parsons Douglas, director of the Douglas schools at Pebble Beach.

Mary Wolfe, whose parents are renting a house on Carmelo and F. Daniels is leader of troop one, and Mrs. G. H. Burnette is leader of troop two girls from San Francisco.

CARMEL GIRL SCOUT TROOP ACTIVITIES

The Girl Scouts is an organization that teaches young girls between the ages of ten and eighteen to be refined and helpful. A girl that has been a good Scout should become a respectable citizen.

The Carmel Girl Scouts were organized about ten years ago. Only ten or twelve girls met regularly at the old shack they used for a scout house. The girls worked hard, and now we have nearly fifty members. They are divided into three troops. Mrs. F. Daniels is leader of troop one, and Mrs. G. H. Burnette is leader of troop two.

VOL. XIX No. 25

Policemen Listen In As Pirates Do Their Stuff

"Take one consideration with another, with another, The policeman's life is not a happy one!"

Members of the Monterey County Peace Officers' Group which met for dinner Tuesday night at Pine Inn must have agreed more than once with the above sentiments, which Gilbert and Sullivan express musically in "The Pirates of Penzance." But it was probably a pleasant surprise to some of them to know that the policeman is immortalized in that lively little opera.

After the cigars and speeches, the entertainment took the form of a song given by the chorus of "The Pirates" under the direction of Arthur Gunderson, who served his singers hot from the rehearsal griddle.

Led by David Matzke, who plays the part of sergeant of the doughty pirate-fighters, the make-believe policemen sang lustily: "When the foeman bares his steel

Tarantara, Tarantara, We uncomfortable feel—Tarantara

And we find the wisest thing Is to slap our chests and sing Tarantara.

Or when threatened with emeutes Tarantara, Tarantara, And your heart is in your boots, Tarantara,

There is nothing brings it round Tarantara, Tarantara, Tarantara, Tarantara.

Like the trumpet's martial sound." Then the Major-General's daughters (almost as numerous as Sir Joseph's Porter's female relatives) joined in with their "Go, ye heroes, go and die."

Which prompted the brave policemen to remind them that they were "going to meet their fate in a highly nervous state."

tias," made up of Emilia Lindeman Rathbun and the Misses Elena, Berta and Clotilde Lindeman. The performance will take place in the Carmel Community Playhouse on Monte Verde, July 4, at 8:30.

"Las Tapatias," they explain, is the title given to the natives of Guadalajara, city of Mexico, where the four sisters were born and here they learned to sing, play the guitar and dance from the people of this region who are famous throughout Mexico for these achievements. Although Guadalajara is their native city, they have traveled extensively throughout Mexico and collected songs and folk lore. Many of the songs Las Tapatias sing are being introduced to American audiences for the first time.

On the mother's side Las Tapatias belong to the famous Spanish family of Quevedo. They number many writers among them the most famous being Jose Quevedo.

The costumes worn by Las Tapatias are authentic. Those of the Mestiza Indians with their borders of painted flowers and birds, and those of the Colima Indians with their gay red embroidery, will no doubt be entirely new to American audiences. The "China Poblana," or Fiesta costumes of Mexico are gorgeous with skirts covered by glittering sequins and heavily embroidered blouses.

Las Tapatias will be assisted by two clever Mexican boys who play the mandolin and guitar. They are Pablo Fidelin and Mariano Flores.

The four girls plan to be in Carmel visiting with friends and will be here in time to enjoy the festivities of the Carmel Fair.

PORCELAIN FLOWERS ARE OF INTEREST

Miss Florence Terry, well known Carmel resident, is the maker of the most interesting clay products we have seen. With imported porcelain clay she models miniature flowers and even complete gardens with such detail, that they seem actually to live.

Miss Terry first molds the flower, gives it two paintings, and finally shellacs it. Many are only one and two inches high, and her complete miniature gardens measure about eight by six inches, so no one can imagine the watchmaker's care and artistic ability involved in the production. Selections include pansies, daisies, calla lilies, cactus, violets, roses, nasturtiums, etc.

Until recently Miss Terry has made these products exclusively for the wholesale trade, but the work has proven too strenuous, and she hopes that through entering the retail trade she will be able to make money and at the same time avoid such tiring work.

Her "Yellow Bowl" studio is located just south of 12th street on Monte Verde and visitors are always welcome.—Adv.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS IN MOLIERE'S GREAT DRAMA

The Carmel Community Players have slipped back to the seventeenth century and are rehearsing court bows, satin-and-lace manners and other furbelows of Moliere comedy. For the play is to be "The Imaginary Invalid," the roistering drama which was the merriest play the Frenchman ever wrote—and the last. For Moliere, playing the part of Argan, the imaginary invalid, himself, took a curtain call at the end of the last performance, made a little speech in which he assured his audience that he really was a very sick man, retired to the wings—and dropped dead.

It is hoped that no such tragic ending may attend the playing of J. Rosslyn Jones, who is now rehearsing Argan under the direction of Kit Cooke, assisted by Frederick Burt. Mr. Jones is exactly the type to play the role, being what is usually called "rosy with health." The play will be presented July 6, 7 and 8 at the playhouse.

Those seen at the Hotel Del Monte Saturday night were Jean and Nancy Thompson, Janet and Doreen Martin, Cynthia Barrick, Betty Joyce, Charles Watson, Arne Anderson, Mr. A. B. Martin, Ted Watson, Bud Todd, and John von Saltza.

Pro Artes Open Season of Carmel Music Society

The first concert of the Carmel Music Society series is always an event, but the opening next Tuesday evening, June 27, when the renowned Pro Arte String Quartet of Brussels will play its program here, will be as gay and festive as the music itself—which, by the way, begins with Haydn.

It looks as though everyone will be there. Countess Dandini are coming from San Francisco to open up their Carmel house. Luther Marchant, of Mills College, drives the Pro Artes down, and will be in the audience; guests of Peter Pan Lodge from Mill Valley are writing to find out the program and make sure of the date. Pro Arte devotees from Burlingame, Berkeley and San Francisco are following the Quartet down and opening up their Pebble Beach homes in order to be here for the concert.

Meanwhile the board of Carmel Music Society is kept busy arranging for the event. Mrs. Paul Flanders, who has charge of the tickets and seating, has been staying up until two in the morning working out the jig-saw puzzle of the seat-chart, so that groups of ten and twelve from Carmel Highlands sit together in the middle section; Mrs. Smith must have two more seats in the fifth row alongside of Mrs. Jones, and Mrs. Roe wants her season seats moved from the sixth row center to some place farther back, where she can have three more beside for some out-of-town guests. All of this is very difficult as the entire middle section center is taken by year-round season ticket holders.

Mrs. Edith Dickinson, president, is busy checking over all the innumerable details of ushers, lighting, extra chairs in the balcony, and a lot of things that no one would think of who hadn't had the responsibility of putting on a concert of the Society; Highlands gardens are cherishing long-stemmed, statuesque looking flowers for stage decoration to be skilfully arranged by Hazel Watrous; Mrs. Marble is dashing in and out with last minute subscriptions, and Mrs. Howe, Katherine Kirk, Fritz Wurzmann, Mrs. Carmel Martin and all others are telephoning, dashing here and there in their cars on "Music Society business," doing everything that can be thought of to "put over" the season.

But such a season of seven concerts, beginning with the Pro Artes on June 27 and July 11, needs no boost to put it over and "everybody" will be there. The seats are now selling in the Denny-Watrous gallery as canary-colored one-sheets proclaim to the peninsula.

The Pro Artes have played many a concert since they were here last summer. Over a hundred, to be exact. Portugal, Spain, Italy, France, England, throughout Europe, the United States and Canada—recognized everywhere as the "greatest in the world." Not only are they the greatest, but their repertoire is the largest—there is nothing that they do not play.

The June 27 program begins with a string quartet by Haydn—Opus 54, No. 2. Then "Triptique" by Tansman, and last the very beautiful "harp quartet," Opus 74, No. 10, by Beethoven.

SEASON TICKET HOLDERS TO CALL FOR TICKETS

The Carmel Music Society asks its season ticket holders to stop in at the Denny-Watrous gallery on their way to the Post Office, and pick up their tickets for the two Pro Arte concerts. Mrs. Flanders has the seats all ready, neatly labelled in envelopes.

MIRIAM VARIEN IS NOW BACK AT WORK

Mrs. Miriam Varien, popular manager of the Vanity Box Beauty Parlor, is back at her job again after several months' absence.

Mrs. Varien is the proud mother of a two-months-old son, which has been the reason for her "vacation" from duty. Her return was further delayed by the serious injury of her husband, William Varien, in an automobile accident several weeks ago.

"Bill" is improving rapidly now and expects to be back in charge of the Museum Barber Shop within a few weeks' time.

Local Novelist Tells How He Bumped King of Spain

Charles Mc. Morris Purdy, who wrote his first novel in Carmel, and whose mother, Lillian Purdy, still resides here, has a very clever account of his meetings with King Alfonso, deposed ruler of Spain, in the June issue of Harper's Bazaar. Under the title, "Don Ricardo's Hat" Purdy tells of a visit to Seville, where (to quote him) "For three days I crossed the path of Alfonso; Alfonso at the ball. At the bull fight I sat in a box almost directly behind him; on the promenade we tipped hats to each other; at the ball I stood beside him watching the flamenco dancers. But I do not wildly imagine that Alfonso was greatly concerned, nor that he was aware, even, of a lanky young American whose trip from Barcelona to Seville had been somewhat closely attended by the police because of politically innocent friendships with Catalan republicans.

"Nor do I think that looking at a king is a proper subject for self-exploitation. Other people have looked at kings, even cats, although so far as I know, while a cat has looked, he, or she, has never been known to write about it.

"And, after all, it was not Alfonso who wore the proud gray Andalusian hat, head-mark of hospitality, but Don Ricardo."

Purdy had a letter of introduction to Don Ricardo, wealthy olive oil magnate of Seville, who showered him with hospitality. Purdy tells, "The next day Don Ricardo and his gray hat took me to the great bull fight in honor of the king. The finest matadors in all Spain were to be present, the best picadors, the greatest. I had never seen a bull fight before. I was not sure I wanted to. I had heard of the excitement of slipping away if it was too much for me. But when I found myself seated with Don Ricardo almost directly behind the royal box, I knew I would have to like it. I did like it, I jumped on my seat and shouted, "Ole" Don Ricardo roared appreciation, friendly Andalusian faces smiled at me, heads nodded approvingly because the young North American liked bull fighting. I liked the color, too, the gaudy brilliant shawls flung over the edge of the boxes, the crowd in the sun on the opposite side of the arena, the pageantry and the hot danger of bull fighting. And I saw the very bored back of Alfonso's head.

"Don Ricardo was proud that he could show me the king. It was a great occasion. The day was hot, the fights interminable, and Don Ricardo fanned himself with his great gray hat, and his healthy body looked moist and uncomfortable in his store clothes, for now he was a prominent citizen, a figure to be respected. And he knew the king.

"He did not tell me outright. But I think he planned the slow drive along the promenade afterward, for Alfonso, in a slow moving car, approached from the opposite direction. The bright red of the Hispano caught his eye, he glanced over, saw Don Ricardo in his grand gray hat; we raised our own hats punctiliously, Alfonso smiled and moved his lips at Don Ricardo, and looked curiously at me, sitting there blond and lank. He tipped his hat, the royal car was gone, and Don Ricardo, beaming, waited for me to inquire respectfully, "How did the king?"

"I have been of some little service," he deprecated modestly. I knew he was very proud—a peasant boy (as he told me) who had made a fortune; a man of the people who consorted with a king. I felt pretty good, too, having a king tip his hat to me, even if it was only on Don Ricardo's account."

There was to be a grand ball for the King, and the hospitable Don Ricardo was desolate because there could not be had an invitation for his friend, Purdy. He would feel dishonored if he must leave behind this guest of his while he attended the ball. So he prevailed upon the Governor of Andalusia, an intimate, to give over his own ticket for Purdy's use.

"And so," says Purdy, "we drove into brilliantly lit grounds of some palace (I do not know which one, or just where, forgetting to ask in my excitement). Bands were playing. Poor people thronged the roadside watching the gentry arrive. Poor people and gypsies dressed for a fiesta, and the bands played and our little party—Don Ricardo, his wife, and myself—mounted carpeted steps in a blaze of sound, Dona wearing her mantilla and comb, which were de rigueur, and Don Ricardo, hatless for once, mounting steps with dignity.

"There were few foreigners besides myself, most were consular officers, I think. The palace was immense, orchestras played in many rooms, there was the sweet odor of Andalusian flowers and the purr of the mountains. In the huge ballroom there was a grand march, very stately and impressive, and later I remember dancing with some one, of Alfonso nodding and smiling like an automaton. And later I wandered through the sparkling chambers, listening to gypsy orchestras play hill music, watching the best dancing troupes of Spain performing.

"Outside the palace in the grounds the common people gaped and whispered, there was no thought of revolution, and the bands blared; and inside, the soft rustle of mantillas, the soft beauty of Spanish eyes, and I watched the flamenco danced, and watching, bumped carelessly into someone standing beside me. I muttered an apology without taking my eyes from the dancers. I do not think I had had anything to drink (for some unremembered reason), but I was heady with music and color. Presently I saw people staring toward me, and I looked about. Alfonso stood within arm's touch, looking very bored, with a frozen smile on his lips, trying to be pleased.

"I was not in Spain during the revolution a few years later, but I like to think that finally, as a supreme gesture, Alfonso, instead of bowing gracefully, thumbed his nose at politicians and flamenco dancers alike, and was no longer bored.

"Again I was with Don Ricardo.

I did not tell him I had bumped into the King. I think Don Ricardo would have been shocked. He was so pleased with himself, so happy I was enjoying myself, with eyes wide like a child's, I couldn't spoil his pleasure. I moved in a daze, aware of scents, of sounds, of colors, and three years later it was to be ended.

What Makes a Safe Tire? ... I KNOW!

THE MASTERPIECE
OF TIRE CONSTRUCTION

ARE you willing to risk your life on advertising statements claiming blowout-proof and unblowable tires? One manufacturer gives as the reason for claiming blowout-proof tires—the use of one ply of another color—another, a patented "no breaker" construction—a mail order house, high stretch "elastic" cords, etc., etc. Actually the fundamental cause of a tire blowout is the flexing of the tire which causes friction of the fibers in the cord, resulting in heat and causing the rubber to soften and the cords to deteriorate.

There is a reason why Firestone Tires have won the 500-mile Indianapolis race for 14 consecutive years, the most gruelling tire test. The reason is the Firestone patented extra process of Gum-Dipping which saturates every fiber and insulates every cord with pure rubber—which gives strength to the cords and prevents friction and heat in the fibers. This year 42 drivers in this race equipped their cars with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and not a single driver had any tire trouble.

Race drivers know why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are safer and not subject to blowout and will not risk their lives on ordinary tires. Your life and the lives of your family are often in danger at the high road speeds of today and you should not take greater risks than the race drivers who make sure that they have the best and safest tires they can buy—Firestone. Come in today. We will give you a liberal trade-in allowance for your old tires on new Firestone High Speed Tires—the safest tires in the world.

See Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires made in the Firestone Factory and Exhibition Building at "A Century of Progress," Chicago.

Garbage? No! It's Knitting Now Occupying Time of City Council

It is not garbage, it's the fine side art of knitting and home weaving that brings gray hair and corrugated brows to the ever-agile members of the Carmel city council.

A simple question asked by Police Judge Wood during Wednesday night's meeting as to the legality of selling yarns and knitted goods in the residential district sent the council into a tumultuous session that was marked with tears, laughter, cursing and applause.

According to Judge Wood, Mrs. Edna Deakin has established the business of selling yarns and weaving at her home which is out of the business zone. Should she or shouldn't she be stopped, Judge Wood asked.

"It's all a matter of legality," City Attorney Argyll Campbell explained. "If the woman sells the articles at her home, she is violating the zoning ordinance. If, on the other hand, she obtains the goods from the east by mail order she is within the protection of the interstate commerce laws and cannot be touched."

"But," interrupted Mrs. Jean Ritchie, who herself has opened a yarn shop in Carmel, "I am informed that this woman sells the articles at her home, and furthermore was given permission by the city to do so. If that's the case, I don't see why I can't conduct my business at home and evade overhead."

Members of the city council looked innocently at each other. The mystery is still unsolved.

DE NEALE MORGAN TO EXHIBIT IN GALLERY

A "one-man" show of great interest is the exhibit of paintings by M. De Neale Morgan, opening in the Denney-Watrous Gallery tomorrow afternoon, two to five. Miss Morgan will be present, and the public is cordially invited to the opening of this excellent artist's showing.

Carmel Street Fair which the Pine Cone is now able to publish exclusively: Mandu the Magician Master, who laughs at locksmiths and even has a private titter in store for Chief of Police Gus Englund, is to exhibit his prowess at four special performances when Carmel is en fete on Saturday, July 1.

More than that, Mandu the Magician will give two preliminary exhibitions before the main event. On Thursday, June 29, when the Carmel Boy Scouts have their special matinee at the Carmel Theatre at noon the following day at the corner of Franklin and Tyler streets in Monterey, Mandu will demonstrate how to get out of a tight fix.

Locked in an ordinary U. S. mailbag by a committee of sharp-eyed citizens—and that in itself is an unusual hide-away for anybody to be locked in—Mandu, so secluded, will be securely nailed into a packing case in the sight of all. Then—Presto! he'll be out of both restraints and bowing to his audience. At least, he believes he will; though recently when he tried this trick at Santa Barbara he had to be taken to the hospital after his "escape."

This stunt is but one of many the professional miracle worker will perform in his little theatre at the Street Fair. Better equip your hat now for the accommodation of white rabbits.

There'll be magic of a different sort in the Marquis of Queensberry ensemble which Promoter Jack Dalton will contribute for the amusement and instruction of young and old. The cowboy groomer of lively scrappers has promised several bouts which will show Carmel something new in the boxing business. Doc Staniford will take his punishment as referee. Bobbie Norton, timekeeper. And as an added attraction for his show, Dalton will do some fancy rope twirling after the manner of Will Rogers.

An unexpected attraction but recently added to the Fair's list will be the execution of cartoon portraits by Philip Nesbit, a visiting artist who recently has been snapped up by Vanity Fair under contract for that exclusive publication.

This may be the last priceless piece about these big doings to appear in this family paper. So don't forget there'll be everything there from beer and bird houses to sodamints for that stuffed feeling.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, June 25, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light. They that dwelt in the land of the shadow of death upon them that the light shined" (Isa. 9:2). Other Bible citations will include: "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and today, and forever" (Hebr. 13:8).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "From the infinite One in Christian Science comes one principle and its infinite idea and with this infinitude come spiritual rules, laws, and their demonstration, which, like the great Giver are the same yesterday, and today, and forever;" for thus are the divine Principle of healing and the Christ-idea characterized in the epistle to the Hebrews" (p. 112.)

FEDERAL FUNDS MAY BUILD CITY HALL HERE

Possible construction of a city hall and sea wall to make the widening of Scenic drive possible under federal funds loomed today as the result of action taken by the council Wednesday night.

The council authorized Mayor John Catlin to make a complete investigation of methods by which Carmel could obtain money through the federal recovery bill that would provide for one of the two projects, or both.

Police Judge George Wood informed the council that it was imperative that some action be taken toward the widening of Scenic Drive. According to Wood, the street will have to be widened before long or it will have to be closed to traffic.

Mayor Catlin indicated that he was certain the city could obtain the federal funds for the two projects, the construction of which, he said, would relieve the local unemployment problem.

COUNCIL DELAYS HEARING OF NOLAND AND CAMPBELL

Charges that Harry Noland, Monterey county's "wonder boy" district attorney not only double crossed him but did not have the "courage to back up his accusations" were made by Argyll Campbell, ousted deputy, during a hearing of the city council Wednesday night.

Campbell told dramatically of how Noland had made the false accusations against him in the press and then failed to substantiate them.

"Twice the Carmel city council has given him an opportunity to explain the charges he made against me," Campbell said. "Instead of being courteous enough to answer the mayor's invitation, he has absolutely ignored the request. I predict that Noland is too yellow ever to appear before the council."

At the request of Frederick Bechdolt, Carmel author, the council extended another invitation for next Wednesday for Noland to make a local appearance.

"We want to give him every opportunity to appear before us so that later he won't be able to make excuses," Bechdolt said.

IS THAT SO?

By Winsor Josseyn

They have catnip mice for cats to play with. Why overlook dogs—man's noblest friends. May we not suggest dognip cats for them?

You still hear people say that the movies are in their infancy. Then it must be second childhood, for here's the synopsis of a four-part super film made when picture youth—in June of 1915. It was titled, "The Reward."

Made by Thomas H. Ince and featuring Bessie Barriscale, it was headed, "A chorus girl finds being good very lonesome work, and when about to fall from the straight and narrow path, discovers there is a Reward for the virtuous."

Want the detailed outline, as it follows a page of emotional close-ups of Bessie?

"Jane Wallace, nicknamed 'the Iceberg' because of her refusal to join the gay life of the 'Great White Way' with the other chorus girls of her company, finds being good very lonesome work."

"Trixie, a lively chorus girl, introduces her to Dan Colby, an idler and cynic, who boasts that no woman will refuse the primrose path if she gets the right chance."

"Dan takes her to a cabaret for luncheon, asks what reward she gets for goodness and she replies, 'The respect of others!' But when he introduces her to his aristocratic friends they snub her because of her shabby clothes and Jane begins to wonder if she is right. Then, one night, she is late to the theatre and is getting a call-down from the manager when two flashily dressed chorus girls come by and get no call-down. Jane demands why, and is told that their gentlemen friends pay half the show's costs. Jane is disgusted and discouraged and quits the theatre."

"In the meantime, Jane's sweetness has been influencing Dan, and he becomes convinced of the error of his ways. He is writing Jane to marry him, when she comes to his apartment, says she has been a fool and is ready to try the primrose path."

"Dan is horrified and amazed. He insists on showing her a few things about the other life before she finally decides, but when he does so her sensibilities have been blunted and she refuses to see. Dan sends her back to the apartment alone, and in discouragement paces the Avenue."

"While in Dan's apartment, a doctor comes from across the hall and asks Jane's help, for in the next apartment is a woman with a new baby. Jane comes back to herself as she realizes that the reward of untainted motherhood is virtue, and when Dan comes, she leads him to the doorway and they look upon the beautiful sight."

"Dan takes Jane gently in his arms and murmurs, 'I guess that is why God intended women to be good, and men too'."

Want a good book, one that pales your mystery yarns?

Get "Fix Bayonets!" by Capt. John W. Thomason, a Marine officer with the First Battalion of the 5th Regiment in 1918. This young unkillable illustrated it, too, and it's one of the best things on one of the worst businesses this cockeyed civilization ever got tangled up with.

The Romans would have gone into a huddle about it. Who wouldn't? When you're brisk-ing along toward the main cross-roads and come upon a turtle—it must mean something.

At first glance it looked like just the shell of a turtle, the size of a big man's palm. Careful poking with a stick showed considerable life under the shell, and an active desire to keep on going wherever the going has started for, dusty though the trail.

On the crown of the shell were the initials "J. R." lightly engraved. No date. We had sort of hoped that this long-lived animal might have been a pet of Father Serra's and been autographed by him. We still carry the thought.

Turtle "J. R." was last seen in the vicinity of the Park fishpond, still hissing like a snake and working his feet like a gila monster. Owner may have something for the catching.

Mr. John Holliday is staying at the Highlands.

Mrs. William Stava and Peggy and Patsy Stava of Berkeley are spending the summer in Carmel.

INSTALL Natural Gas Heating THIS MONTH
AT A SUBSTANTIAL SAVING

Follow this Universal Trend—9 out of 10 Heating Systems Installed Today are for Natural Gas

Because of a Special Offer this month, many people will make the change to Natural Gas heating at once. It pays them to act this month. A Special Discount cutting the purchase price of Natural Gas heating equipment saves them money. The equipment is installed for a very small first payment. They do not pay one cent more until after October 1st.

There are many sensible and good reasons for doing this during the summer. No need for ordering and storing fuel. No bother and expense for repairs of old heating equipment. No need to think of the chores ahead for the coming winter—keeping fires going and cleaning up after them. Instead they can look forward to the enjoyment of whole-house comfort for which there is no other expense other than the monthly bill for fuel after it is used.

Without obligation to you, why not have one of your gas company's representatives or your local heating equipment dealer give you an estimate for Natural Gas heating in your home? In this estimate the Special Discount and Special Terms will apply if you act this month.

16-cent Cut in Sunset School Tax Rate Looms in New Budget

A tentative slash of sixteen basis for the reduction in the cents in the Sunset school district tax rate. Cuts were made in teachers' salaries, supplies and operation of the plant. The school trustees held Tuesday night.

The new district tax rate will be 27 cents as compared with a 43 cents levy of last year. If there is a large delinquency and not enough tax money is raised, the board may be forced to increase this tentative rate. There is little doubt, however, that the rate as set by the budget will stand.

During Tuesday night's meeting, the school trustees presented the official budget for the coming year. The new budget calls for total expenditures of $34,790 as compared with the outlay last year of $39,992.

Between these two budgets there is an approximate saving of $5,000 which is used as the

Scout Benefit Program To Be Given Thursday

An elaborate benefit show under the auspices of the Carmel ~~group of Boy Scouts~~ is scheduled to be given next Thursday afternoon, June 29 in the Carmel theatre.

The show starts at 2:15 o'clock and will feature Mandu, world famous magician who "sees all, knows all." Mandu will be ready to gaze into the future for any of the spectators. Also on the program will be a thrilling moving picture, "Deadwood Pass." Tom Tyler, who stars in the film will be on the stage in person.

Proceeds from the affair will be used in aiding the fund for the local Boy Scout summer camp. The show is being given exclusively for Carmel youngsters and adults are being urged to buy tickets for them.

Committee in charge of the event includes Herman Crossman, Louis Levinson, Hurd Comstock, Otto Bardarson and Everett Smith.

LEGISLATURE DOES LITTLE FOR SEEKERS OF DIVORCE

That Monterey county is not all one big happy family is evidenced by 164 divorce proceedings filed in its courts last year. In all California there were 20,387 "domestic relations" cases, according to the Judicial Council of California, reporting to the state legislature.

The legislature took cognizance of the fact that clouds will blow across the marital horizon, but eventually accomplished very little in changing existing laws.

Several bills which would have reduced the one-year "wait" now required between interlocutory and final decrees of divorce failed to get to first base as far as the lawmakers were concerned.

A similar fate also befell a measure to abolish the so-called "gin-marriage" law which requires a three-day delay between application for issuance of a marriage license. Despite claims that this merely forced couples to get married in other states, most legislators felt it still was effective in stopping hasty, ill-advised marriages.

Another bill which proposed to solve the problem of scores of unwarranted "heart balm" cases failed to gain approval. This measure would have required breach of promise and similar accusations to post a bond in the sum sought by the court action.

One measure, however, which was successful, provides that alimony shall not be paid to a woman after she remarries except under certain circumstances where the alimony is actually needed for support of children.

"This bill," explained Senator John McColl, Redding, author, "will prevent such a situation as one with which I was familiar.

In this case the first husband was unemployed, yet he was supposed to pay alimony to his former wife who was married to a man earning a good salary."

CONSERVATION CAMPS NOW OPERATING IN FORESTS

Conforming to orders from President Roosevelt to have all Emergency Conservation Corps at work in the forests by June 30, there are now 53 conservation camps completely manned in the national forests of California, according to report by S. B. Shaw, chief of the Forest Service and regional coordinator of E. C. W. activities in California. Twenty-one of the camps are in the 14 national forests in the northern part of the state and 32 in the four national forests south of the Tehachapi

Two conservation camps on State lands have been established and fully manned by the Division of Forestry, State Department of Natural Resources.

The full quota is 212 men and officers. The administration of the camps is under Army authority with a regular army officer as camp commander. Supervision of all forest conservation work is under the direction of a Forest Service camp superintendent.

Highway Zoning Plan

The general provisions for zoning the Carmel-San Simeon highway from the Carmel river to Rat creek, exclusive of the stretch already zoned by the city, as prepared at a meeting of property owners along the way with the county planning commission last Saturday, are made public, and will be given careful study in Carmel. Two of the proposals meet with enthusiastic support: that commercial tracts be kept back from the highway 150 feet, and that no advertising signboards larger than twelve square feet—three feet by four feet—be allowed along the way.

Others of the regulatory provisions must be studied with the map, or upon the ground itself. One commercial district zoned to each existing property ownership, and more than one where the ownership is over a mile long on the highway, sounds at first gasp like a commercial rather than a scenic highway, but it may be that the contour of the land, together with the 150 foot provision, is protection enough from stores, restaurants, service stations and the like. These commercial districts will be parallel to the highway, east of it—not on the ocean side—and 300 feet long.

Again, the regulations for bona fide hotels are not drastic. They will be allowed "at any point along the highway provided they are set back 50 feet from the exterior lines (except the ocean shore) and an area of five acres is usually included in the hotel site." It may be that the definition of a bona fide hotel, when made, will exclude motels with kitchen cottages, and there will be fewer sites that fit the provisions than at first would seem probable.

Auto camps, treated in the fourth paragraph of the commission's report, are rather vaguely provided for. From the Molera ranch house to and including the Castro ranch, they will be allowed, but the remainder of the highway is left pretty much in the air. There the commission "does not favor the establishment of the usual type of auto camp, except back in the protected valleys, but may recommend such use WHERE CLIMATIC CONDITIONS ARE FAVORABLE, and where the class of structure is of an approved type." Any zoning law left open to the climatic conditions of the Monterey county coast will hardly stand the test of the courts.

Also there is a provision here that gives one pause. "Any cabins within 150 feet of the road must be single buildings, etc.," reads the report. We evidently were wrong in assuming that all commercial structures must be kept back from the highway 150 feet, at least. If autocamp buildings can crowd up, why not filling stations or restaurants? Artistically, there is no preference.

The owners along the highway seem very well satisfied with the proposed regulations, which may mean a lot. Property owners were very well satisfied with the original proposals of the county planning commission as to zoning the highway between the Toll-gate and Carmel river, yet they did not at all like the final draft of the ordinance that was passed. And we do not believe that the satisfaction of the abutting owners should be the primal consideration of the county planning commission.

Unrest

The wind has swept

The decorations out of the sky...

Peace has fallen upon me for an hour.

When shall I leave this forest?

The terrible trees and the houses...

When shall I stand upon the mountain

And cool my eyes with distance?

The world is full of little scraps of truth

That press around me with a million smiles.

I beg surcease from safety—

I have lost life in all this gentle living.

Let me for once attempt the uttermost peak.

And break a dangerous path toward the snows.

Don't Tell Me

Don't tell me the shadows are reaching eastward—

tions should be made. The steps are becoming rickety—the electric wiring in the basement and garage is in poor condition—new plumbing fixtures are needed—the roof is beginning to leak—those hardwood floors for the living room you've been thinking about so long have never materialized—the garden and lawn should be rejuvenated—the whole house could do with a new paint job. The addition of a few labor saving devices in the kitchen would make your home a more pleasant and efficient place to live in.

It's probable that you've been thinking of making such repairs and betterments as these for several years—and haven't had them done because of nervousness as to the future, the thought that you'd better keep your money as intact as possible. That's the kind of reasoning that has prolonged the depression. It's the kind of reasoning that throws men out of work and makes it impossible for them to find new jobs; the kind of reasoning that causes basic industries to run at the lowest production point in decades.

Today you can obtain property-improvement, of whatever kind for a fraction of what it would have cost you five or ten years ago. You'll probably never be able to buy so cheaply again, for already prices are beginning to rise sharply. Wages are certain to follow up, and an opportunity to put your place into perfect shape at small cost will be gone.

Also you'll be putting men to work, putting money out where it will help all our merchants, and placing your stamp of finality upon the depression.

The Carmel Street Fair

There are certain things which Carmel does most excellently. The best of these is the Street Fair. When it comes to entertaining a mob of visitors who are seeking amusement, this village can think of more and livelier stunts, and put them over with greater enthusiasm and ability, than any place we know.

There is no danger of anybody being bored at Carmel's Street Fair. The money that leaps out of pockets to help the Unemployment Fund grow bigger, does it cheerfully and the man who pays gets ample exchange. He needn't feel a bit like a benefactor of humanity, either, unless he wants to.

To the visitor in town it will be an experience to see Carmel at play, doing its stuff to send the depression farther into the background. We are very serious in our light heartedness, and there is sincerity even in our ballyhoo. From four o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 1, on, Carmel will be showing the world how to make money for charity and make the losers like it.

Vacation Time

It is the time of year especially the property of the boys and girls of the community. For a couple of months they are free from their desks and books, and can learn how happy a place they live in. The sea and its long and varied beaches, the mountains with wild flowers and wild life, the river and its streams, all are theirs to enjoy throughout vacation time.

Letting them run wild for a bit will do them good, teach them the lesson of self reliance, make them wiser and healthier. Back to school they will come in the fall, browner by sunburn, brighter eyed, keener witted, ready again to resume their studies.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Carmel gets you. Letters from ex-Carmelites tell of this all too clearly. Among the recent ones to come is that of Francis (Frenchy) Murphy, late of fuel business and Abalone ball, amongst us. Doc Staniford's name was on the envelope, but it was scatter-gunned at the crowd that sent a round-robin eastward some weeks ago.

Frenchy is in Table Grove, Illinois. According to a friend, complement atlas, this is in the western central part of the state, about a couple of hundred miles southwest of Chicago; in Fulton County, and Liverpool is the Salinas thereof.

"This country," says the moody ex-Carmelite in part "was settled originally by an immigrant that had lost his oxen, his patience and a couple of wheels. His descendants have never found the oxen, patience or wheels, hence most of them have never been out of the state of Illinois—and a great many never out of the county.

"They don't use money here, so the gold or silver standard mean little to them. You get two haircuts for a bushel of wheat. If you are bald-headed, why you feed it to your hogs.

"Just because I am from California, every time I go up town they blow the fire siren and lock the bank. They expect me to shoot somebody every time I come to town to keep in trim. One resident finally got up courage to ask me if I ever shot anybody, I began counting my fingers with an absent air, and said, "Do you count Mexicans and Chinks in this country?"

"Then he asked me why I left California. I said that one man I shot was influential and his friends had me arrested. I was sentenced to be hanged, but cross-examination showed I had a wife and two children then in Illinois. The Judge gave me the choice of being hanged or going to live in Illinois. So here I am.

"Have been following Abalone games in the Pine Cone, and wish I were there to try and hold down right field or bat boy. (Note: members of newspapers who covet Frenchy was one of the fastest players we ever had.) My regards to all the players, including Frank Sheridan.

"Also to everybody else. Adios. Frenchy."

About a month ago, Charles Parker on the Pine Inn staff for many years was given a farewell address and feted. Parker had purchased a lease in a Santa Cruz hotel and had planned to make his home in the future in the surf city.

Guests at Pine Inn and many of his Carmel friends gathered and gave him a surprise party. Then Charlie left for Santa Cruz. Yes, he told his friends, he liked Carmel, but he had a great opportunity in Santa Cruz. He would not return.

Some two weeks ago, the friends that gave him the farewell party, caught sight of him walking on Dolores street.

"Just came back for a short visit," Parker explained.

And then the secret finally leaked out. His stay in Santa Cruz had lasted but a few weeks. Then he became homesick for Carmel. He threw up his business venture, packed his trunks and fled back to the village.

Now, he's once more at the Pine Inn.

It may yet come to pass that eastbay and San Francisco newspapermen will make their headquarters in Carmel and commute here from their respective offices. This last week-end, almost a dozen newspapermen were visitors in the village.

Among the group was Anthony Moltoret, one of the leading political writers in the state and a member of The Oakland Tribune staff. Moltoret came to spend only a few quiet hours with Senator Ed Tickle and before he left had rented a cottage in Carmel for the summer.

He brought with him a copy of the "Bumble Bee" a four-page newspaper put out once a year by members of newspapers who covet the state legislature. The paper carries on the front page a picture of the eminent Governor Rolph dressed in Roman attire and with a brief paragraph extracted from Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

The "Bumble Bee" recommends the appointment of Rolph as poet laureate and the suggestion that all taxes should be eliminated by the legislature, except a high tax on artichokes.

Of Senator Ed Tickle of Carmel, the "Bumble Bee" says:

Senator Ed Tickle, the debonair boniface from Asilomar-by-

The Devil Walks

By Herbert Cerwin

There's only good thing about the name of this column—it warrants an explanation about every six months.

When we started it to fill space we found a woodcut of what appeared to us as a devil in golf trousers walking. Quickly we took possession of the cut. The Devil Walks—a name to fill the cut.

On the day of publication, we discovered it was not the cut of a devil at all but of a prominent Carmel artist.

And now we learn that an enterprising group of Carmel residents are planning to turn the proposed Noland-Campbell hearing into a benefit affair.

It is understood that if Noland is willing to appear before the Carmel council and answer the charges he made against Campbell, there will be a capacity crowd with residents from all over the county present.

Why not have it in the Sunset school auditorium and charge $1.00 a ticket, turning proceeds over to the unemployed?

Nobody likes a party better than Sinclair Lewis. Yet when he starts writing, parties, drinking and other forms of amusement are quickly forgotten. Usually when he is writing, he won't see anyone—out of which has grown the erroneous rumor that he is never sober.

Lewis is one of the hardest working authors in the "big name" class. Frequently he'll be at his typewriter at 5 o'clock in the morning and will write straight through to 5 o'clock in the evening. Often when working on a story, he won't leave his hotel room for weeks at a stretch, having all his meals sent up to him.

Lewis is now at his summer place, "Twin Farms" in Vermont where he is half-way through his new novel which will see serialization in a national magazine this winter.

He writes us: "Gorgeous though Carmel and Point Lobos are, I think I prefer these Northern green hills with their seasons, their incessant changes. But about every three years I also the-Sea threatened to resign today following the tabling of the Tickle table bill by the assembly committee on hoop skirts and laughing gas.

"The bill got through the senate without anybody asking what it was about," said Tickle, "and I don't see why the committee should be so particular."

"Has it anything to do with tickle-tack-toe?" asked Assemblyman Joe Gilmore.

"On the contrary," said Tickle, "it is connected with pediatrics in only the slightest degree, being designed to eliminate tackling from the annual football game between Carmel high school and the Carlisle Indians. It will not affect any other fish and game district in the state."

mingway's "Death in the Afternoon" may soon be filmed once the terms are settled.

And how, we are puzzled, will they portray the old lady's conversations?

Up above Hoffman's camp lives a raiser of chickens who reads by his fireplace each night Socrates and Dante in the original.

We came across a certain Carmel "intellectual" on the beach the other day reading "Snappy Stories."

Sign on the Monterey-Salinas highway: "Stop, Honey, half-mile down."

THE LURE OF CARMEL

what it offers in pleasures. Some of them are from the east, and are having a first experience of California's vaunted climate, it's "sunshine, fruit and flowers." Because they are strangers here, and because the boasted climate sometimes fails to make its boast good, there are disappointments.

Though not if they are capable of mental enjoyment, and understand what is offered to them here in golden opportunities. If they are interested in dramatic work, they are being eagerly sought by amateur directors who will give them parts to play, or work to do at stage design and building, at costuming or props, and will bring them into as interesting a social group as they could ever hope to find. The Forest Theatre Society, with three plays of widely differing characters, the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, Pirates of Penzance, Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice and Milne's comedy, The Ivory Door, will want every bit of talent the summer can bring to Carmel. Then Edward G. Kuster at his Community Playhouse, with the Beggar on Horseback and Martin Flavin's Amaco scheduled for the summer must have casts and helpers. The Community Players, under direction of Galt Bell, will later be hunting talent.

And should the visitor from away be musically inclined, either as performer or auditor, where else could there be so rich a summer for his pleasure? The Peninsula Symphony Orchestra will gather him in if he has instrumental ability, or the comic opera cast or chorus will welcome him if he has a voice and can keep the key. Let him make it known in the right places that he sings or plays, and the village of Carmel is his for the summer.

The visitor may be merely a lover of fine music, not a performer. Nowhere else can he have, so cheaply and with such comfort a program to equal what will be found here this summer. The world famous Pro Arte String Quartet, the Penha-Abas chamber ensemble, the Peninsula Philharmonic Orchestra, will give concerts and public rehearsals. And other significant musical events will spatter the months.

Of these artistic expressions, one may become a part insofar as desires and talents allow. Or one may work, with brush and palette, in the finest field for landscape or marine subjects in the west, with the inspiration of the exhibits that are shown at the Denny-Watrous Gallery or the Del Monte gallery. In every line of artistic endeavor, Carmel gives its visitors supreme advantage, and welcomes them royally.

But this is only the mental side of the picture. What Carmel holds for him who neither paints, sculps, writes, sings or tootles, needs a lot of telling. Fishing, for instance. If the number of trout taken this summer from the Carmel river were laid snout to tail, they would flop for many miles. Add to these the fish stories that come up from the Big and Little Sur and the trout streams down the coast and one could walk on fish scales around the world and back.

It isn't the time of the year for hunting, or we could tell stories! Sea bathing, with the long white beach and blue waters; horseback riding over wonderful trails in romantic surroundings; golf on the finest courses in America; all the sports that go to add happiness at vacation time are here at their best. And if nature acts grimly and dulls things with its fog, there are places but a few miles up the valley where the sun will be smiling.

Carmel Breaks Red Tape to Save Life of Famous Horse

Sun Cloud, thoroughbred racer owned by Betty Greene, today owed his life to a group of influential Carmel residents who by bringing political pressure to bear slashed the government red tape that might have strangled the red stallion.

The horse, suffering from a serious ailment that made an operation imperative, was denied the use of veterinary facilities at the Monterey presidio. Dr. L. C. Graham, the veterinary attending the horse, was informed that by order of the war department, none of the presidio facilities could be used in civilian cases.

Immediately a group of Carmel residents, headed by Mayor John Catlin, wired Congressman J. J. McGrath and demanded that the secretary of war intercede on behalf of Sun Cloud. Within a few hours, McGrath wired Mayor Catlin informing him that the Monterey presidio had been ordered to allow the use of the veterinary operating table.

Sun Cloud was operated on early this week by Dr. Graham and will be back at Miss Greene's stables within the next few days.

"Sun Cloud owes his life to the Carmel residents who interceded in his behalf," Dr. Graham said following the operation. "It brought to the realization of the government that the life of an animal should not be forsaken."

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Scoville and a house on San Antonio street for children of Pasadena have taken the two summer months.
